

GARNET WHEAT AGAIN PROVES FINE CEREAL

Second Year's Tests Give Splendid Results, Says Expert

Combining quiet maturity with high yield, and finding favor in the eyes of the market, Garnet wheat has come through its second year of trial in a manner which conforms to a remarkable record of success which was first reached in regard to this wheat, according to Dr. H. W. Motherveld, Newman, dominion cereals, who has had charge of the experiments.

In the first year of trials, the tests, the government officials announced that Garnet wheat had shown itself as an early maturing, high yielding wheat, requiring less straw, good weight per bushel, and good quality of grain. In milling and baking qualities, it showed no significant difference between this and Marquis, except in the value of flour and crumb. In this respect, it gave a winter color than did Marquis.

Matured Well—Earlier.

As results were favorable, Garnet did not display any particular ability to resist disease, and was not subjected at the first laboratory at Winnipeg, nor did it demonstrate its ability to withstand frost damage, field conditions. The fact that it matured earlier than Marquis, however, created the hope that it would be more resistant to winter diseases, particularly by partially escaping this disease due to its ability to mature early.

Now, however, it has been tabulated as a still more comprehensive test, and the results of the 1928 results have been confirmed. As regards yield, says Mr. Newman, "Garnet" undoubtedly ranks among the most productive of all cereals, and it is particularly in districts for which it is especially suited, that it has given maximum yields have been recorded, but in other districts, maximum yield has been much less, indicating that while this variety may be particularly well adapted to certain districts, it is not sufficiently hardy to grow in districts liable to east epidemics.

Averages Slightly Higher.

In hardness of kernel Garnet undoubtedly ranks next to Marquis, with two varieties kernel, in spite of the fact that the kernel is slightly larger.

In percentage of flour extracted, the results have been confirmed. Garnet has also exceeded slightly, but in this case the difference is large enough to be significant.

In hardness of kernel Garnet undoubtedly ranks next to Marquis, and two varieties kernel, in spite of the fact that the kernel is slightly larger.

As regards resistance to disease, the results have been confirmed. Garnet has been found to be particularly susceptible to rust, and it is recommended that this variety be avoided in districts where rust is prevalent.

Great Results Expected.

AMONG THEIR SOUVENIRS

VEGETABLES, FERTILIZER ACTS SCORED

OTTAWA, April 23.—Third reading was given to a bill amending the fertilizer Act in the house yesterday. The measure was under consideration. Hon. W. H. MacKenzie, minister of agriculture, raised the question as to whether the bill was necessary in passing such legislation. The minister was one which might come under power of the federal government. Hon. W. R. Motherveld, minister of agriculture, replied that the original act had been on the statute book for several years and had never been challenged.

The question arose again when the bill was referred to the committee on the sale and inspection of root vegetables.

Mr. Motherveld said that this bill had passed the departmental committee and the opposition voiced strenuous objections to the bill, particularly in regard to the sale of vegetables by weight.

Dr. George (of St. George) declared that this proposal was "ridiculous and preposterous."

"Either you will have all the market vegetables or none," he said, "and you will not enforce the act," he warned.

Mr. Motherveld said that the bill was always sold by the bushel or by the pound.

Mr. Motherveld replied that this bill was introduced to meet a situation with respect to certain vegetables.

Mr. Bennett said he wanted to encourage the sale of vegetables by weight, but he did not know how to do it in a way "to the consumer to know what he is getting."

Mr. Bennett declared the bill was at odds with the weights and measures act.

The measure was creating an obligation for gardeners to comply with a bill which provided that no one could sell vegetables or have them in storage.

The bill was still in committee when the house rose at six o'clock.

Under the new law all provisions of the bill were struck out.

Under the gentle and balmily invigorating influence of the warm sun, the city is being cleaned up.

Industries and business houses, discount stores, banks, and bakeries are no longer to be seen in the city. A considerable amount of cleaning has been done.

JERRY MUSKRAT HAS A DISAPPOINTMENT

There's nothing in this world that's

No matter how we scheme and plan,

We simply have to be content.

With the sun up in the sky,

Jerry Muskrat had hurried himself out for the night so that he could have time to get a comfortable place to sleep.

Jerry was happy. He could hear the rustling of the trees and birds

as he lay down to sleep.

He was awake after all. He looked at Spotty and Spotty had a curious gurgling laugh. But Jerry knew that in a little while it would grow into the full laugh that makes music through the Green Forest and puts happiness into the hearts of all who hear it.

"Get Up Jerry Muskrat!"

So Jerry was happy, for it was not because he had a comfortable place to sleep.

The Green Forest was beginning to laugh.

He was beginning to laugh.

Her parents are still living.

A girl's parents are living in Scotland, and cannot come in their anniversaries, but she has sent them a telegram to let them know where she makes her home in Canada?

Spotted, the wedding is announced in the bride-elect's aunt before this trouble had come. He was still dreaming when I awoke him, for it was daylight. Jerry yawned and stretched, then sat up for a minute to listen to the pleasant sounds of the forest. There wasn't any pleasant murmur; there was only the sound of birds. Jerry was happy. He could hear the birds singing. Brook, beginning to laugh again, just little by little, was gurgling laugh, but Jerry knew that in itself it would grow into the full laugh that makes music through the Green Forest and puts happiness into the hearts of all who hear it.

So Jerry was happy, for it was not because he had a comfortable place to sleep.

Parliament Receives Detailed Plans for Beautification of Canada's Capital

PARK SCHEME CORNERSTONE OF PROPOSAL

Premier Urges County to Make Ottawa Worthy of Dominion

OTTAWA, April 29.—Plans for the beautification of the national capital were placed before Parliament today.

The bill, a government measure, proposes:

—To reduce from $25,000 to $20,000 the annual amount granted to the Ottawa federal district commission.

—An additional sum of $10,000 for expatriation of the Russell Block.

The plan—sketch maps were distributed—proposes to make Ottawa a better place to live than the scheme is to provide a large park in the centre of Ottawa, and to have a bridge over the Rideau River.

Mr. Laurier, minister emphasized what had been done by other countries for the beautification of their capitals, and urged the Canadian people to do the same for the heart of the dominion. It is the desire of the Canadian people to have a city worthy of the dominion, around which one-way traffic will move. The reconstruction of Ottawa is the heart of the capital. There, in all probability, the first bridge will be built.

Infantile Paralysis Patients In Hospital Total Forty-Five

Good results are being obtained by the patients in their efforts to stave off the effects of the diphtheria epidemic which visited Europe last summer and left so much misery and suffering in its wake.

London, April 25.—The hospital erected as an annex to the University of Alberta hospital to care for patients with infantile paralysis has been opened. It is hoped that not only will happy results be obtained, but that the children will be given to the children by people interested in fighting this disease.

Infantile paralysis is one of the most urgent and difficult problems of medical science. It is nearly as baffling as ever to scientists seeking a cure, and the work of physicians in a report today.

A committee of international experts for the study of infantile paralysis states that little or nothing can be done to prevent the infection or control of this disease in spite of the efforts of medical science given to this baffling problem. It adds, further, that there are no permanent cures for the disease, which is both endemic and epidemic.

GIRL ALONE

THIS HAS HAPPENED
SALLY FOORD, 16, ward of the Marshall family, was "farmed out" to CLEM CARSON, who and his wife were students, for summer work. When Carson made remarks about David's strength, for the barker hit him, crushing bone. They ran away and saw the crystal ball. It was Lalla and Sally as "Princess Lalla," crystal guru. In Carson's list is recognized when the orphan troupe is chaperoned by a barker, divers attention and Sally was asked to go with him. VAN HORN, handsome exterior, but amoral, said, "GIRL, you think that 'Lady Beautiful' is ENID
BARK, wife of a wealthy New Yorker.
I'm not a barker, but I'm a securer and she and David go about the temple of the crystal ball. David gives her a sapphire engagement ring, which she makes disappear before the crystal reading fortunes; she is stunned to see coming toward her the face of her mother. She knew so well during those 12 years in the matron's grip that she
now GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXVI

Sally felt as if her flesh were shriveling upon her bones. Her fingers trembled to her fingernails. In anticipation of the new life she had been longing for.

Horn's matron gripped them. How the orphanage had been brought jerked to her feet by those broad, bearded hands. She was caught in some minor infraction of rules.

Her hands instinctively clapped as that precious engagement ring which she had seen glinting like gray eyes, were so rigid that Sally had never heard of anything so brazen in her life. It's my turn now, she thought. I'm turning menacingly toward Gun, who had come to another as if greatly embarrassed and perplexed. I'd better call the constable and let him settle this thing," he said

"I'm a deputy sheriff," a man said. The awe-stricken Gun had swallowed and gulped suddenly to see a fat man with a silver star on his uniform. Sally knew him too.

He was the barker, bent over the platform. Sally knew him too.

With the carnival was to impersonate an officer of the law who would protect the girls from the matron.

"This is an outrage!" the orphanage matron said. "I will give you no opportunity to say more."

Gun, the Barker, bent over the platform, admiring the two women and the two girls. He had seen outside, all nice and peaceful. I hope.

The last word was spoken to the matron. "I'm taking care of you now, Gun. You're safe."

"Better real," he said.

The dame's harsh voice pierced the number. "I want to speak directly to you."

"I have paid my quarter-and a half and I have arounds here all day."

The relief was so terrific that the girl burst into tears all over but the rigidity of terror had mercifully relaxed her shaking hands.

The girl, who always remained upon the platform during her "readings" had long ago arranged a code of signals with the barker. She gave it. Her hands went up to the platform. Gun, the Barker, bent over the barker, her long black hair and addusted his tippety-toe first and then sat down. I'll let it off the pressure of its weight upon her forehead.

Toronto Lakesides Triumph Over Local Basketball Teams in Exhibition Game

COMMERCIAL GRADUATES ARE DEFEATED IN FIRST HALF 24-12

Starting Under Handicap of 12 Points Champions Failed by Single Tally to Even Up Count in Thrilling Last Half—Final Score 31-30

BY KEN MCCONNELL

Starting his team under a handicap of 12 points, Coach J. Peter Page, coach of the Commercial Graduates, witnessed, along with about 300 fans, the decision of the champions last night at the Arena by the Toronto Lakesides in an exhibition game.

Fighting an uphill battle and with their opponents being quite contented with the score, the Lakesides were forced to play a very poor game for victory, the Grads found the going just a bit too tough and failed to make up the deficit. What was more, the Grads would have tied up the score and a tie-breaker would have won the game for them.

That final chapter was one of the most exciting witnessed at the Arena in some time.

COMMERCIAL GRADUATES

An exciting basketball week-end has just ended. All three games kept the fans right on their toes. Saturday night the Lakesides won, but the Grads were not mentioned. But so will Monday evening bring the Grads back to the arena again, and the Grads will have to go to the top of their game to win the game again.

Last night's game was not quite as thrilling as the previous two engagements, but it was nothing at all. This one of the three was very important part of his wearing apparel. What was more, the Grads would have won the game again.

A few shorts covered the Grads trip to Paris this summer were realized on the part series. It is hoped that the fans will be able to get a good view of the games as they did the one just now. The Grads are the best team in Edmonton's one best bid, and if they don't go to the fair metropolis of Paris, they will be in our fair metropolitan city.

Miss "Rose" Rosedale did not seem to be very disgusted last night, despite the fact that she had to sit and wait, and, rightly so, three times. In fact, "Rose" was quite tickled with herself.

There has been considerable discussion around city regarding the Eastern Association. They are not the recognized champions and were not given the impression that they were the recognized ladies' basketball champions of eastern Canada.

According to the president of the Eastern Association they are not the recognized champions and were not given the impression that they were the recognized ladies' basketball champions of eastern Canada.

The Lakesides are a gang crew, however, and probably pulled a fast one, neglecting to play the Calumus game that was to be played at the arena, forcing to bring them to Toronto and then taking the train for Edmonton.

What that happened to the worthy president of the E.A. As "Rose" must have known that they were less than the Grads, and that's all there is to it. Another one of life's little mysteries.

And now, when the latest challenge arrives home, we will hope the Grads will meet the challenge with a will. We will do our best to help them, and we will, in all probability be told.

But we won—that's one for the coaches and basketball "experts" of Toronto and districts to laugh off.
